PREFATORY NOTE

The third edition of the Literature list having been exhausted, it is now reissued, incorporating additions which have been made from 1917 to date. As headings and subdivisions are more fully developed under English than under the other literatures, subdivisions (with the exception of the period divisions) have been given for English literature, English poetry, etc., only. They may be introduced when desirable under the other literatures; the specifications (Collections), (Selections: Extracts, etc.) for example, may be added, when it is desired to separate form from subject proper.

The present issue includes a preliminary list of language subject headings, followed by a list of subdivisions used under names of languages.
